

Divine Gallic Polymathy

(June 2024)

Basic requirements for High Office:

One must hold this truth to be self-evident, that the Executive General Manager of a modern country must be not only a very wise man ¹, but also an accomplished polymath ².

Age considerations:

The average graduating age for a Doctorate (PhD), which certifies deep particular knowledge in one particular subject, is about 35;

The average graduating age for the Aggregation ³, which certifies deep general knowledge in one particular discipline, is about 37.

Educational paths:

For about two decades before graduation, graduates of both degrees dedicate nearly all their energy and all their time to learning or studying their particular subjects or disciplines;

Meanwhile, politicians dedicate all their energy and all their time to learning or studying the art of seducing a plurality of voters, instead of acquiring deep knowledge in all disciplines over a lifetime, and can therefore be hardly anything but oligomaths.

Query:

What could have been the possible educational path leading a 28 year old politician to being potentially appointed Prime Minister of a major nuclear armed country and being therefore recognized for his exceptional Wisdom and Universal Knowledge?

Interpretation:

Like Adam, the man must have had Universal Knowledge and Science in him infused ⁴.

Conclusion:

No other than Omnipotent God Almighty is capable of so swiftly infusing in any Man Universal Knowledge and Science.

Praised be the Lordly Envoy to the Gallic elithio-paedocracy!

¹ Or woman, or both, or neither.

² A person of great and varied learning.

³ The Gauls frequently require the aggregation for teaching eleventh and twelfth grades.

⁴ As for Eve, she only learned from Adam, and not much for that.
