

The Common Sense Mandate

(January 2025)

An internal USAID notice sent late Monday, 27 of January, said new acting administrator Jason Gray had identified “*several actions within USAID that appear to be designed to circumvent the President’s Executive Orders and the Mandate from the American people.” [emphasis added]

Mandate (n.)

c. 1500, "a command, a judicial or legal order," from French mandat (15c.) and directly from Latin mandatum "commission, command, order," noun use of neuter past participle of mandare "to order, commit to one's charge".

Contrary to the Démodé Spirit of the Constitution of 1789 and its XXVII Amendments, which were designed to protect the Minority from being oppressed by the Majority, the Modern Spirit embodies that:

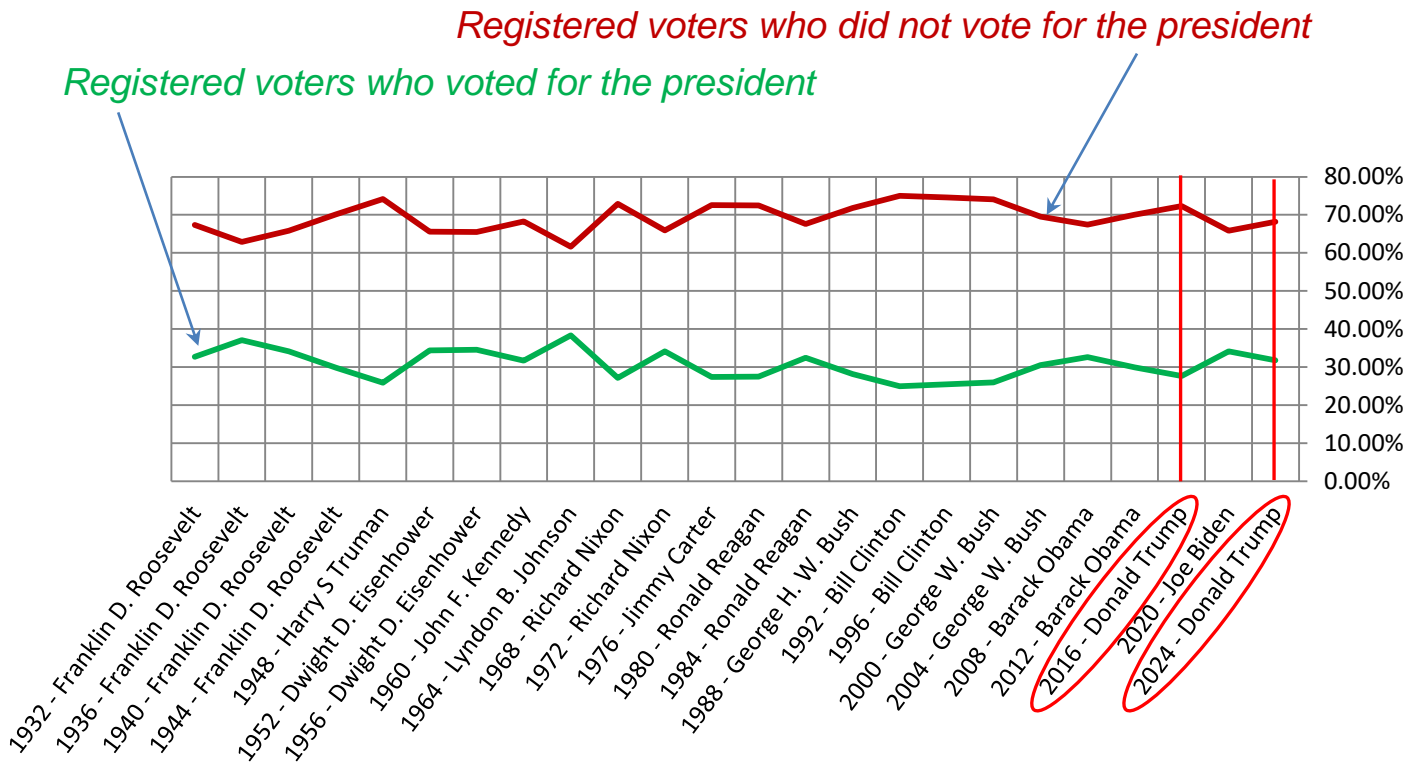

There Exists a Well Justified Mandate for the Overwhelming Majority to Coerce the Hapless Minority.

Notwithstanding the archaic definition of "Argumentum ad Populum":

Latin for "argument to the people" or "appeal to the people". Originates from classical rhetoric and logic. It is a logical fallacy in which the popularity of a belief is used as evidence of its truth.

the reader will find in the next two pages an irrefutable justification of the Mandate from the American People, and the Holy Right for the Overwhelming Majority to Coerce the Hapless Minority, which both parties invoke profusely whenever in power.
