

A better claim

(May 2024)

Whereas:

1. The U.S. Government is reportedly planning to deport Latin American migrants to Italy and Greece;
2. Latin Americans for the most part are the direct descendants of those who peopled North America from Asia as early as 26,000 years ago.

Suggestion:

It is hereby suggested to repatriate instead the 18 million or so Italian-Americans and 3 million or so Greek-Americans to Italy and Greece, since their ancestors arrived in the U.S. only about a little more than one century ago at most, whereas those of current indigenous Latin Americans were firmly established in North America at least 250 centuries ago, and therefore their claim to the land could be 250 times as strong.

The areas left vacant by Italian- and Greek-Americans would be opened to 21 million original Americans from south of the border.
